Bani-Sadr Still Demands America To Admit Guilt

By The Associated Press

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr has repeated his demand for a U.S. admission of guilt for alleged misdeeds during the shah's reign as a condition for the release of the American hostages, Tehran radio said today.

The inquiry by an international commission into Iranian allegations against the deposed shah will not be sufficient to ensure the release of the 50 Americans, now in their 107th day of captivity, Bani-Sadr was quoted as saying after a meeting of the ruling Revolutionary Council Sunday night.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, meanwhile, arrived in New York and went into a meeting with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim. A spokeswoman for the American mission to the United Nations was asked the purpose of Vance's visit and said she thought it was for a general discussion but "I would expect that the subject of Iran would come up."

One of the hostages in Tehran, U.S. Marine Cpl. William Gallegos, said in a filmed interview that he had expected the shah to be returned to Iran in the second week of U.S. Embassy siege. He said after two weeks he had thought he would remain in the embassy forever or leave "in a plastic bag."

Gallegos and Marine Sgt. Paul Lewis spoke on Feb. 10 with a group of the visiting 49 members of the Committee for American-Iranian Crisis Resolution. The interview was filmed by Greek television and broadcast on NBC-TV's "Today" show.

Bani-Sadr's declaration came as Waldheim was awaiting the Iranian government's response today to his choice of a five-member commission that will probe Iran's charges against the deposed monarch, now living in exile in Panama.

"The freeing of the hostages will depend on the compliance by the United States to three Iranian conditions," he was quoted as saying in a report monitored in Kuwait.

It listed the conditions as:

"Admission by the United States that it had interfered in Iran's internal affairs during the rule of the shah. A pledge to refrain from any such interference in the future. A promise not to block efforts by the Iranian government to ensure the extradition of the shah and the recovery of his fortune."

Bani-Sadr's statement confirmed a hard-line tack he took in two weekend interviews and off-set statements he made last week indicating that the Americans might be released once the U.N. commission began its inquiry.

In a news conference last Wednesday, President Carter said he supported formation of "an appropriate commission with a carefully defined purpose" as a means to free the hostages. But he ruled out any U.S. admission of guilt during the alleged misrule by exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Bani-Sadr told a Greek television interviewer Saturday that the hostages would not be released until the commission released its findings and the United States "undertakes" its "obligations."

He repeated his three conditions for release of the hostages in an interview Saturday with the U.S. news magazine Newsweek.

"The United States must take the initiative on three different points if it wants to change the political climate," the magazine quoted him as saying.

Bani-Sadr also told Newsweek that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini was in "complete agreement" with his plan and would "make his opinion known" to the militants holding the 50 American hostages "when the time comes." The militants, who occupied the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Nov. 4, have said they would free their captives only on direct orders from Khomeini.

Meanwhile, U.N. spokesman Rudolf Stajduhar said in New York Sunday the United States had already agreed to the makeup of the U.N. commission. The Iranian response was delayed for reasons "of a purely technical nature," he said.

"Some aspects still have to be clarified and the matter has to be coordinated before the secretary-general can make an announcement," the spokesman added, without elaboration.

ACCIDENT — A woman was admitted to the Murray-Calloway County Hospital this morning following a two-vehicle collision at the corner of Olive and 7th Streets. Marilyn Stevens, 21, 1213 College Courts, was admitted to the hospital for observation of head injuries, a hospital official stated. According to a Murray Police Department spokesman, Stevens was southbound on 7th Street and she stopped at the traffic sign at the Olive Street corner. Stevens then proceeded into the intersection, colliding with a van driven by Gerald Carter, 37, 800 Olive, the spokesman said. After the collision with the Carter van, the Stevens car then hit the corner of the porch at 609 Olive, the spokesman added. Carter was traveling eastbound on Olive.

AAM Chairman Says Age Not Making Organization Any Tamer

By SOLL SUSSMAN

Associated Press Writer

WARRENTON, Va. (AP) The national chairman of the American Agriculture Movement says age is not making the organization any tamer as it prepares for its third annual assault on Capitol Hill.

"We certainly are going to remain vocal — very vocal — and we need to blast those that blast us and blast those that are advocating a cheap food policy," Marvin Meek of Plainview, Texas told several hundred farmers gathered here Sunday for a rally.

The farmers were to head for Washington, about 45 miles away, later Sunday and today. However, they planned to travel individually or in small groups instead of the large motorcades that have characterized their visits to the nation's capital the past two years.

No estimates were available of how many farmers would be on hand by Tuesday when this year's demonstration begins in earnest with a meeting at the Commerce Department. A similar meeting was scheduled Wednesday and Thursday and Friday have been set aside for lobbying congressmen on upcoming agricultural bills.

The American Agriculture Movement first came to Washington two years ago as a grassroots organization promoting a farm strike and returned last year with a massive tractorcade that snarled traffic.

Meek acknowledged that the number of farmers in Washington this year would diminish significantly. He said that would fit well into plans to put more emphasis on lobbying instead of demonstrations.

The Texas farmer cautioned against letting the promotion of gasoline divert attention from the movement's top priority of increasing the prices paid for agricultural commodities.

"It (gasoline) is new business but we've got old business that is messed up and needs to be corrected," Meek said.

First 'Humanitarian Of The Year' Award To Be Given

The first "Humanitarian of the Year" award will be presented Friday, Feb. 22, at a reception at the Calloway County Public Library at 7:30 p.m., according to an announcement from the board of directors of the Calloway County Humane Society. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Prior to the presentation of the award, John Graham, president of the Blue Grass Area Humane Federation in Lexington, will speak on the subject of "Kindness." Graham, who retired as a colonel from the U.S. Army after 34 years, has been president of the federation for three years. He is also an advisor at the U.S. Army Reserve Center in Lexington. Graham will be accompanied to Murray by Garnetta Keller, executive director of the Mercer County Humane Society in Harrodsburg.

Calloway School District To Locate Children Not Enrolled

The Calloway County School District is making an effort to locate and identify children who are presently not enrolled in school. Many of these children have physical, mental or emotional handicaps or are out of school for other reasons.

All citizens of Calloway County are asked to support this campaign to locate children. Those persons knowing of a child who is not in school should call Mrs. Joy Waldrop, child find coordinator, at 753-3033.

When a child is located, the school system will make evaluations and plan an appropriate educational program for that child.

The farmers planned to install stills on the Capitol Mall and in Lafayette Park across from the White House to demonstrate how alcohol fuels are distilled from grain.

As another promotion of alcohol fuels, some members drove to Washington in alcohol-powered vehicles.

Glenn Allred of Wildorado, Texas, said he and his wife arrived Saturday night after leaving home last Monday.

"We just brought one car from every state to conserve energy," he said. "We could have flown much cheaper than we drove."

Allred said he used gasoline for his van whenever possible, but that the fuel was not readily available along the entire route.

"Humanitarian of the Year" must have contributed significantly to the cause of kindness to animals, according to the society. He must have "relieved suffering, prevented cruelty and furthered humane education." The latter three requirements are quoted from the charter of the local Humane Society. The person chosen for the award does not have to be a member of the Society.

Educational Improvement Hearing Set

A public hearing concerning the Educational Improvement Plan will be held Thursday, Feb. 21, at 5:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room across from the gym at North Calloway Elementary School.

The purpose of this hearing will be to obtain input from all interested persons concerning a plan to assure student access to programs and services designed to improve performance in the basic skills, according to Joy Waldrop, Guidance Counselor for the Calloway Schools.

Mrs. Waldrop said registration will start at 5:15 p.m. and all persons are invited to attend. She said an opportunity will be given to any group or individual wishing to testify in regard to this program.

Parent-teacher conferences have also been planned for Thursday, Feb. 21, from 3:15 to 6:15 p.m. at North Calloway School. Appointment times may be scheduled during these hours by persons contacting their child's teacher.

Mrs. Waldrop urges all parents to attend to discuss the progress of their children, or to plan necessary programs of action.

For more information concerning the public hearing and the conferences, persons may call Mrs. Waldrop at the Calloway County Board office, 753-3033.

"People who are often in a hurry imagine they are energetic, when in most cases they are simply inefficient." -- Sydney J. Harris.

Declarer played quickly and inefficiently in today's touchy game. He was right to play the trump suit when he did, but he was wrong to give the defense the chance to beat him.

North forced with a jump preference to three spades and South correctly chose the major suit game instead of trying to play three no trump.

Dummy's diamond ace won the first trick and a trump was led to declarer's ace. Dealer cashed his diamond king and ruffed his low diamond with dummy's seven.

Dummy's nine of trumps was covered by declarer's 10 and, when West won the queen, it was clearly time for thought. Declarer had bid both majors and had shown three diamonds. Surely, he couldn't have more than one club.

Seeing his only hope in hearts, West led his heart ace and, when East signaled with the eight, a heart to East's king and a heart back beat the hand one trick.

Where did declarer blow his chance? He might have concealed his king of diamonds to give West something else to think about, however, that was not the big mistake. Declarer lost his chance when he took the trump finesse.

Since the game is cold against any 3-2 trump division, declarer should have won the second trump lead with his king, instead of finessing.

When trumps break, he starts the hearts, and the defenders can take only two hearts and a trump trick.

Be wary of tempting finesses -- the quicker one takes one, the more likely he is to be inefficient.

In This Home, Gay Means Sad

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the young boy who suspected that his sister was gay because she and her girlfriend ate, slept and even bathed together. (You told him not to worry -- that it was probably just a warm friendship.)

Well, I have a daughter I'll call Karen, who also had a "warm friendship" with a classmate named Rita. We thought nothing of it until Karen told us that she and Rita were "in love." They were both 18. We were shocked and sickened, and forbade Karen to see Rita again. We even saw a psychologist with her for several months without any success. That was two years ago. Now Karen has moved into an apartment with Rita, and they plan to live happily ever after.

We are ashamed and heartsick. Now I wish we had never found out because we feel so helpless. Karen refuses to change; she insists she's "happy" as she is. We think she's sick or twisted, and wonder where we went wrong, where we failed.

We raised two daughters. The older one is happily married. We never considered the possibility that this could happen in our family.

Abby, how do parents learn to cope with a problem like this? We've tried for two years and it's still as repulsive as ever. I am too ashamed to give my name and address.

HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: First, get over the notion that you have "failed." You haven't. No one "knows" what causes homosexuality, but consider this: Karen's sister was raised by the same parents in the same house as Karen, and she turned out to be heterosexual. Doesn't this suggest that perhaps homosexuality could be an inborn biological trait?

For enlightening information, write to: Parents of Gays, 201 W. 13th St., New York, N.Y. 10011, or Box 24528, Los Angeles, Calif. 90024. Be sure to enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. They are a fine, non-profit, support group who perform a life-saving service for parents (such as you) who love their children dearly but are heartsick because they don't understand homosexuality and can't accept it.

One thing is certain, God made gays just as surely as He made straights. And all His children are entitled to live and love in dignity, without shame or guilt.

DEAR ABBY: You told of the "Orr Maneuver" in which a Mr. Orr tape-recorded the annoying barking of a neighbor's dog, amplified it, and played it back at the dog. The pooch was quickly silenced.

Well, that maneuver has even a better use: My friend, "Tiny," a Phoenix insurance executive who needed his sleep, lived about 10 feet from a house of heartless klutzes who played their stereo at a high-decibel volume until well after midnight every evening.

Polite protests to the neighbor got him nowhere, so one evening Tiny recorded their music, set a loud speaker just inside his fence facing their bedroom window. He turned the volume on high and played their own concert back to them 3 o'clock in the morning!

Once was enough. Problem solved.

OREN A. IN LAGUNA HILLS

DEAR OREN: Thank your friend, "Tiny," for the free sleep-insurance policy. I'll underwrite it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO STEADY READER IN KANSAS CITY: No one described "friendship" better than George Eliot: "Oh, the comfort, the inexpressible comfort, of feeling safe with a person, having neither to weigh thoughts nor measure words, but to pour them all out just as they are, chaff and grain together, knowing that a faithful hand will take and sift them, keep what is worth keeping, and then, with a breath of kindness, blow the rest away."

Getting married? If you want a traditional wedding or a do-your-own thing ceremony, for some great ideas write to Abby for her "How to Have a Lovely Wedding" booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Pap test for prostate?

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I had heard that there was some kind of a pap test for men for their prostate called the acid phosphatase test. So I told my husband when he went to see the doctor to ask to have that test done. The doctor said he would be glad to request it and it was a blood test. They simply drew blood from the arm. This puzzles me. How can you check for the prostate without doing something more direct to it?

DEAR READER: The acid phosphatase test is often helpful in determining whether a cancer of the prostate has spread. This is simply a chemical reaction that results from the action of the spreading cancer. It can also be found in some other disorders in which there's active destruction of bone tissue. So it's not a specific test.

There are a lot of blood tests either developed or in the stage of being developed that are used for the early detection of cancer. Many cancers cause chemical changes in the body. As these tests are refined, it will probably add a whole new dimension to the early diagnosis and treatment of cancers that are too small to be felt or detected by physical examination.

There are some new blood tests in the developmental and testing stage for detecting cancer of the prostate, too. These always have to be evaluated over a period of time in enough people to find out how often they're positive in people who are perfectly normal and how often they are negative in people who have cancer. In any case, it certainly is a step in the right direction and looks promising.

At this time the most commonly used test used for the early detection of cancer of the prostate is by feeling the prostate. The doctor feels the little lump that's developed. This has to be done by means of a rectal examination.

It's important that such an examination be done in every man past age 40 at least once a year. Those cases which are detected very early have the best chance for treatment.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It includes information on cancer of the prostate and early detection.

Most people do not realize that cancer of the prostate is the third most common cause of cancer deaths in men. A public education program is badly needed about men's cancers. The cure rate of cancer of the prostate in men at Walter Reed Army Hospital is 50 percent and only 5 percent in the civilian population. That marked difference is because the army personnel got regular examinations after age 40 and the civilian men did not. A prostate examination at least once a year after age 40 can be life saving.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Lovett of Aurora. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Rudy Tripp, Sr. of Murray.

A white carpet runner was rolled down the aisle for the bride and her attendants. Eight candles were placed in each window of the church and were lit just before the ceremony began.

Pink ribbons decorated the reserved pews. The register table was decorated with a pink lace table cloth and a vase with pink roses, babies breath, and greenery.

Idea Market

Students on a limited budget are understandably dismayed over the spiraling cost of textbooks essential to their college courses.

And increasingly sophisticated copying machines have spurred a brisk new industry to relieve the student dilemma. Services have sprung up around colleges and universities capable of duplicating pertinent textbook pages for eager students or helpful professors at a tiny fraction of the publisher's price tag.

The demonstration of the supply responding to the demand is the mark of our cherished free enterprise system.

But there are snags in the system.

The publisher is being deprived of the anticipated sales to recover his investment in printing costs.

And the author is denied the royalties that are his only reward for his ideas and labor.

Is the copying phenomenon as much of a rip-off as would be the theft of the book itself from a campus store? Seven publishers say it is and have filed suit against a Cambridge, Mass., copying firm under the federal Copyright Act of 1978.

The court's ruling will determine the role of ideas in a market that may have misinterpreted the word "free."

Session Should Be Warming Up

FRANKFORT — While 25 days of the 60-day legislative session were completed last Friday, there has been little controversial debate. But it will warm up some when the professional negotiations bill for teachers hits the floor in the very near future.

When the governor's small package of bills gets into the legislative mills, interest will heighten.

Governor Brown's workers compensation bill or bills also will draw a great amount of interest. This is a subject that has been debated before in legislative halls and has been one of the chief controversial subjects studied by committees since the 1978 session left town.

Business and industry spokesmen already have spent a lot of time preparing to push through a more favorable package of bills on the subject while labor spokesmen are busy building their fences to see that their constituents do not come out on the short end of the horn.

Both sides generally agree that the cost is much higher in Kentucky than many other states while benefits are not maintaining a ratio in comparison to cost.

During the early-day lull of this legislative session, one subject is not being overlooked by legislators and many citizens involved pertaining to retirement and pensions. Already 39 bills have been introduced on the subject covering about every phase of public employment, from state employees to teachers, firemen, policemen, county and city employees.

Two bills relative to military credit for state employees and one provides an appropriation for the state to accomplish funding the program.

One bill in the House covers about every phase of the retirement system in third class cities for police and firefighters. One change would require vesting in the retirement system after 10 years of service and allow retirement at any age after 30 years of service. It also pertains to retirement systems covering several retirement classifications for state and county employees and maybe others.

It is a very long bill and is full of statute references by numbers only which would require a vast amount of legal research to report everything it covers.

A bill in the senate would permit state employees and employees of the State Police to receive up to six months of credit for unused sick leave during their tenure as employees under the system. This bill also requires an appropriation. One bill has passed the House that would prohibit county police merit boards for requiring retirement of officers or employees prior to age 57. Jefferson county now requires such retirement for policemen at age 55.

Another bill would permit a dependent of a deceased member of the General Assembly to draw from the retirement fund after the death of the lawmaker.

Two other bills relate to retirement of state policemen. One would increase the accrual rate and the other would be final retirement compensation upon three rather than five years of employment. These both would increase the amount of retirement pay inkeeping with the economy.

At least eight bills pertain to teacher retirement, from increasing the number of days a retired teacher may work as a substitute teacher without penalty, while other bills relate to cost-of-living benefits, while another provides for some tax exemptions.

Another bill would go so far as to permit public school teachers covered under the retirement system to purchase retirement credit for time spent in teaching in private or parochial schools before being employed by the public system.

Another bill would reduce the percentage to be paid in by university members of the teachers' retirement system from seven and eight-four hundredths percent of salary to five and six hundred twenty-five thousandths percent of salary. The bill also would increase the state's share of contribution to balance apparently the reduction for the employee.

This does not cover teachers in the secondary and elementary systems.

Public employees are looking more seriously at their retirement years than in the past.

Letters To The Editor

Good Luck On Your Road

Dear Editor,

(An open letter to the people of 94 East)

Congratulations! I have just heard the good news that your highway is going to be improved this spring. I know you must be happy — 94 has needed repair for many years.

We, too, have had many tax dollars spent on our highway to improve it. If you'd like to see what your highway might look like next winter, take a drive out 641 North. After you've enjoyed your drive as far as Almo Heights, turn around and go back towards Murray. (It's even more fun when you're headed South.)

First of all, you round a curve and stop under a hill, keeping your eyes glued to the mirror in case a fast moving eighteen-wheeler is coming up on your bumper. (It took a real genius to figure out that little thriller.) If you make it through that, you then pick out a lane from many that's there and try to dodge the barrels.

Fun, huh? If you try it at night, it's even more exciting. Don't want to tell you everything about our road "improvement", just come out and experience the surprises.

Cheer up! Your highway will probably turn out to be even more fun. After all, you have all those bridges to be replaced. I'm kind of anxious to see how you cross Clark's River when the bridges are moved. How about a raft built from barrels? Good luck!

Sacrifices Necessary

To Editor:

In reference to the United States proposed boycott of the Olympics:

I am a very avid fan of any and all sports. I am greatly concerned about the Olympics, but even more concerned over the well-being of the free world.

If Russia is permitted to continue on its present course, it will be in a position to dominate 60 percent of the West's oil flow?

It is my opinion that our boycott of the Olympics will hit Russia where it hurts. In the pocketbook!

Some of our people and athletes keep asking everyone to think of the sacrifices they have made, and are continuing to make towards our appearance at the Olympics. I can appreciate and understand these sacrifices. But if Russia is not thwarted now, what kind of sacrifice do these people think the free world will be making under Russian control? Suddenly, these sacrifices for the Olympics are small compared to our freedom and well-being.

I, for one, feel that the "little" people of the U.S. and the free world should support President Carter and his bid to boycott the Olympics.

The loss of the dollar and the prestige to Russia should show their leaders that the free world will not be brow-beaten by communist threat of world domination or eventual control of energy resources.

We all must sacrifice something for freedom. I am willing to do my share. Are you?

Sincerely,
Bernard Downey, Jr.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am 68 years old and my husband is 66. Our daughter and her husband have asked us to move in with them permanently. I am very close to my daughter and son-in-law and so is my husband. We worship our grandchildren, of course.

As close as we are, I have been very reluctant and my husband thinks I am being silly, but I am afraid that all of us being around each other all of the time might cause friction and problems. As much as we love each other, our lifestyles differ drastically. What do you think? — K.L.

ANSWER: We think that you, your husband, your daughter and son-in-law should think this over carefully. In the final analysis, only you and your family can make this decision.

In most cases, according to statistics available, it seems that two separate households cannot be merged into one without considerable friction. No matter how well many couples get along with their children or grandchildren, it seems that very great adjustments have to be made in a permanent family merger.

Of course, there are many family mergers such as this that do work out and greatly enrich the lives of all concerned. Our intent here is not to discourage the nearly obsolete family lifestyle on which our nation was built, but to encourage careful consideration and planning.

There was a time when it was traditional for the children to make room for their parents, or vice versa.

and families grew large and strong together in unity and love. Now, with the economy as it is, and inflation tearing at the seams of all our homes, it makes more sense than ever for families to re-group in the old, traditional manner.

But, we do urge caution and planning ahead. Open discussion on all problems that can be imagined is best for everyone. For example — if you decide to move in with your daughter, you will probably be much happier if a definite part of the house, including a room other than a bedroom, is set aside for you and your husband. Such an arrangement will assure you and your husband a degree of peace and privacy, where you can arrange your possessions your own way. The ideal arrangement (if room permits) is a private entrance to this special room or section of the house.

Discuss in detail and in advance all financial aspects and obligations of each family member. And ask questions like: Can you let your daughter and her husband raise your grandchildren as they see fit, without intentional or un-intentional interference; can your daughter and her husband find the privacy they need in this arrangement; in the event that it does not work out, can you all be honest with one another and part without crushed feelings?

There are many other more personal questions that should be discussed, including the possible death of any of the four of you and what you can all expect in any other future happenings.

HEARTLINE: My father is recovering from a stroke and the doctor has ordered a private duty nurse to stay at their home for two weeks. Will Medicare cover the costs of a private duty nurse? — D.M.

ANSWER: No, Medicare will not cover the costs of a live-in private duty nurse.

For any persons needing information on Medicare, we have available our 1980 Guide to Medicare. To order, send $1.75 to Heartline's Guide to Medicare, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381.

Bible Thought

I thought it good to show what the high God hath wrought toward me. — Daniel 5:2.

The Story Of Calloway County 1822-1976

By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

Copyright, 1978

In a rather colorless campaign the writer was elected state representative after receiving the nomination in competition with T. O. Turner, a veteran politician of extensive experience in the General Assembly. Kerby's first session, under the Republican Administration of Gov. Simeon Willis, was served under the leadership of Harry Lee Waterfield, speaker of the house, who graciously extended numerous courtesies to the rookie representative from Harry Lee's native county of Calloway. The good fortune of having Harry Lee's immense practical knowledge in the art of politics, placed the writer in a formidable position to wage floor combat in behalf of many of Harry Lee's favored legislative projects.

New as this post was in the workings of practical politics, he often enraged the Democrat majority by his independent voting habits in the assembly. One issue was paramount in his goals — getting Kentucky out of the mud. The sorry state of rural roads had been a political issue with the highest and lowest of Calloway politicians for over a century. But once in office, the road issue was conveniently placed on the back burner to be an insurmountable goal. Mud roads became your representative's first issue and in an amateur's role, concluded it could much better be accomplished through a bi-partisan procedure. In agreement with a seatmate, Herman Losey, the Republican minority leader, they co-sponsored a rural road measure of levying a two-cent gasoline tax to be expended solely for the overall improvement of Kentucky rural roads. The crass idea of co-sponsoring a bi-partisan rural roads improvement measure under a Republican administration was an unthinkable breach of party orthodoxy, according to Democrat leaders. The bill was quickly annihilated by the self-serving Democratic party in control of the house and senate. The idea, however, would not fade away despite the first setback.

Harry Lee once again provided a soothing lift when he gave approval for a fact finding commission to hold daily hearings on the proposal to lift the state out of the mud. He also appointed this post as presiding chairman of the commission. Through the generous efforts of the Murray Democrat staff each weekend, telegrams and letters at personal expense were dispatched to every county judge in the state, requesting a delegation to be heard at specific dates during the next four weeks. The hearings resulted in turnouts of as many as 200 delegates responding within a day from a single county, much to the dismay and chagrin of metropolitan newspaper reporters who ignored the hearings for any measure that would greater benefit the farm population at the expense of urban areas. Admittedly, the hearings were a propaganda show, pure and simple, in addition to a sizeable chunk of grandstanding.

Silence And Despair Cannot Be Hidden After Loss To WKU

By DAVID HIBBITTS
Sports Editor

And then there was silence. The picture of despair on the court and in the lockerroom spoke far more vividly than words could have after Murray's 56-55 loss to Western Kentucky Saturday night.

Although Murray had played Western to the hilt for 40 full minutes before a roaring capacity crowd which echoed on every shot or loose ball, the game boiled down to whose shot would fall last. And when it did, Western reserve forward Tony Wilson was there to hit the game-winner from 20 feet to make the final score 56-55 in favor of the Hilltoppers.

Wilson was there because starters Jack Washington and Bill Bryant had fouled out for the Hilltoppers while senior forward Gary Hooker had gone to Murray's bench in the fiercely played game for the probable right to host the Ohio Valley Conference tournament.

The Racers had their opportunities in the final two minutes with trips to the free throw line where so many of their games had been won before. But four of their final eight attempts, including the last two, failed.

"They've won so many games they looked like they might have been a little tired at the end," Western coach Gene Keady said. "The Murray guys are a great team. They have been winning with freshmen."

"At the half, three things were written on the board — rebounding, poise and defense," he said, pointing to the lockerroom blackboard. "I have been preaching it tonight; we didn't do it on the road (where Western had lost its two Ohio Valley Conference games to Eastern Kentucky and Morehead)."

"I haven't had many tougher ones in my career," Murray coach Ron Greene said. "They're a good ballclub; it's no fluke."

"You have to shoot the one plus ones down the line. We've been in pressure situations and made them. Hopefully, next time we will.

"I thought it would be a low scoring, hard fought game."

Murray opened the scoring in the game with an outlet pass to Sleet, which he converted into his first dunk in a game this season. Coach Greene said he had wanted Sleet to dunk in order to pick up the team early.

Also during one stretch in the second half, Murray's intense fervor for winning this game was so evident that it went from a 43-42 deficit to a 49-43 lead on three straight offensive rebounds and stickbacks that seemed to give the Racers the momentum.

But on two straight trips downcourt, Western got crucial outside shots from reserve Mike Reese to trim the margin back to 49-47.

Probably the pivotal play for Murray came when Hooker was called for charging Western's Jack Washington while Murray was running its delay game trying to preserve a 51-50 lead.

"We had a lot of kids giving the effort, but we wanted it too badly. I hope we have another chance (to play Western in the OVC tournament)."

Just as Greene looks ahead to the opportunity to get another crack at Western, Keady realized that beating

Murray three times in one season will be a heavy obstacle.

"They could do something next time," he admitted. "They are very tough; three in a row are especially tough."

Women Make Dramatic Rally To Nip Western

The dramatic night did have a very rewarding note when the Murray women made a comeback from 13 points behind to defeat the Western women 71-69.

It was the first win for the women in eight games and could not have come at a better time, according to Murray coach Jean Smith.

"It was the first time when we needed the extra push, we had the crowd to support or keep the team going."

"It (the crowd) helped immensely. It helped when we got behind 10 points."

"When we made mistakes before, we thought 'How do we come out of it.'"

Murray opened the game by jumping out to leads of 15-4 and 17-6. But reverting into its habit of blowing leads by making turnovers, the Lady Racers watched Western take advantage of the 30-second clock to pick up the momentum and move out to a 34-21 lead.

But Western could not expand its lead, leading 44-33 at halftime, and Smith said that was one of the keys to Murray being able to make up the deficit.

"When we opened up that much, that sort of thing worries me more than getting behind. With the 30-second clock, the momentum is going to switch back and forth. You hope to have it when you have time to regain the lead."

"That (the first few minutes of the second half) would have been the key. We did a much better job of responding. We showed them (the crowd) we could play basketball."

The difference for Murray in the second half was reserve center Diane Oakley who hit seven of 12 shots for 14 of her 18 points. She hit three straight shots to give the Lady Racers leads of 55-54, 57-56 and 59-58.

She hit two more to bring Murray back to ties of 63-61 and 67-65. But when they needed it, Murray was able to count on steady guard Laura Lynn, who was the leading scorer with 20 points, to bring Murray into a 69-69 tie on a 10-footer with exactly three minutes left and on another 10-footer with 1:04 remaining for the final score.

"I think Laura played one of her best games," Smith said. "That spot (where Oakley was finding her shots) was wide open. Bridette (Wyche) couldn't over it because she was shorter. Diane still had clearance."

"Jeannette Rowan came up with some beautiful steals and interceptions (on the press)."

Murray's record is now 11-16 going its Thursday night game at home against Austin Peay.

MONT SLEETS (10) goes up for a brilliant twisting layup in the first half of Murray's game against Western Kentucky. The layup and an game-opening dunk by Sleet were not enough as Murray lost a heart-breaker 56-55.

AFTER SOME ANXIOUS MOMENTS, the Murray women's bench erupts after its team claimed its first win in eight games, 71-69 over Western Kentucky.

Bowie Helps Seal UK's 74-69 Win Over Vegas

By The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Center Sam Bowie of fifth-ranked Kentucky sealed the Wildcats' 74-69 victory over Nevada-Las Vegas by forcing in a basket that ended his duel with another talented freshman, the Rebels' Sidney Green.

The 7-foot-1 Bowie led all scorers with 23 points in Sunday's nationally televised game at Las Vegas and had praise for Green after the contest, saying, "I couldn't stop Sidney and he couldn't stop me."

"It was a real good battle,"

Bowie said of his personal struggle with the 6-foot-9 Green, who finished with 17 points to lead the Rebels. Green led both teams in rebounds with 11.

"We knew it was going to be run and gun so we tried to cut down on them defensively, and then work hard for our baskets," Bowie said.

Bowie finally ended the suspense when he banked in a layup with 1:16 remaining. He crashed to the floor after the shot, apparently injuring his hip. He was able to walk off the court, but sat out the rest of the game.

Kyle Macy's long-range shooting for Kentucky unlocked the game when it was tied midway through the second half.

Macy, who finished with 14 points, made two consecutive jump shots from about 23 feet with nine minutes and 8:19 remaining to give Kentucky a 69-65 lead. Macy made just one of six shots in the first half but three of four after intermission.

"In the second half, we thought we could go inside more to Sam," Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall said. "But he seemed to tire and we were not as effective as I would have liked us to be."

Coach Jerry Tarkanian of the Rebels said, "I thought we played an excellent game. I told the players afterwards that I am very proud of them because they played so well against what could be the top team in the country. The turning point came when we made some critical turnovers late in the game, and we couldn't force Kentucky to make any mistakes out of their stall."

Kentucky, the Southeast Conference leader, improved its record to 24-4. Independent Nevada-Las Vegas is 19-5.

Richard Box had 16 points and Michael Burns 13 for the Rebels.

Host New Orleans

Murray will get a break from its conference schedule when it hosts New Orleans, which brings a 5-19 record into Racer Arena tonight.

The game should have special incentive for the Racers. Murray coach Ron Greene was the first head coach at New Orleans when the basketball team was started during the 1969-70 season. Greene compiled a 147-65 overall record during his eight years there, including five nationally ranked teams in Division II and an 18-8 record in Division I.

New Orleans' lineup also includes two transfers from Western Kentucky, 6-foot-6 senior forward Julio Davila and 6-10 senior center Lloyd Terry. The two are averaging 11.0 and 14.3 points a game, respectively.

Terry ranks second in the Sunbelt Conference in rebounding with a 9.8 average. James Ferrington is the team's second leading scorer at 12.2 points a game.

In its last game, New Orleans lost at Alabama-Birmingham by an 86-75 score.

SITTING IN DISBELIEF, Murray senior forward Gary Hooker is numb after committing his fifth foul with 1:59 remaining in the loss to Western Kentucky.

Murray Track Team Captures 1st Indoor Title

By Dennis Polittle
MSU Sports Information

The way Bill Cornell had it figured, 130 points would win last weekend's Ohio Valley Conference Indoor Track Championships at Morehead, Ky.

As it turned out, the Murray State men's coach was right. His Racers club rolled up more than enough points to bring home its first indoor crown ever. Murray State won eight of 17 events, while placing in 16, in the conference meet for 137½ points.

The closest challengers were Western Kentucky (109½) and Middle Tennessee State (104). Eastern Kentucky placed fourth with 58 points, while Morehead, Austin Peay and Tennessee Tech earned 56, 50 and 10 points, respectively.

His team's success in the league championships didn't exactly come as a surprise to Cornell, who is in his 13th year as head coach at Murray State.

"We knew we stood a chance going in," he said. "We knew everything would have to click just right, and the kids were just great."

"We did about what I expected us to do. The first night (Friday), I knew we could get 42 points and we got 42 points. The second day (Saturday), I predicted we could get 136 points and we got 137½."

"We just had a super team effort. The kids knew they could get the indoor championship and they gave 110 percent."

The Murray State coach felt his team had an advantage going into the championships. "We're an indoor team because of so many middle distance events," said Cornell.

When asked how he felt Saturday night when his club wrapped up the indoor meet, he said, "I was so elated when I called my wife and talked with her, I could hardly speak. I was choked up. It was near to crying."

Patrick Chimes, a senior from Middlesex, England, had the biggest weekend of any Murray State runner. He won the 1,500 meters with a time of 3:50.9, and also captured the 800 meters with a clocking of 1:55.5.

Here are the other Murray State finishes in the two-day event:

— The distance medley relay team composed of David Rafferty, Brent Konantz, Richard Charleston and Patrick Chimes placed first with a time of 9:58.

— Stan Simmons won the shot put with a throw of 52-11.

— Everett Cornelius was fourth in the long jump with an effort of 23-9.

— Chris Bunyan placed second in the 5000 meter run with a time of 14:48.7. Jerry Odlin was third with a clocking of 15:04.2. ("The officials let them run a lap too far, so their times were off," explained Cornell.)

— Morris Smith placed fourth in the pole vault at 14 feet.

— The team of Richard Charleston, Marshall Crawley, Mitchell Johnson and David Rafferty won the 3200 meter relay with a time of 7:44.1.

— David Rafferty placed first in the 1000 meters with a clocking of 2:27.

— Eddie Wedderburn was first in the 3000 meters with a time of 8:22.9, while Richard Charleston was a close second, breaking the tape at 8:23.0.

— Clearing the bar at seven feet, Ernie Patterson won the high jump competition.

— Gerald Jackson was fifth in the 55 meter hurdles with a time of 7.74.

— Jerry Odlin was sixth in the 1500 meters, clocking in at 3:54.3.

— Tony Smith and Brent Konantz placed fourth and fifth, respectively, in the 400 meter dash. Smith had a time of 49.4, while Konantz clocked a time of 51.7.

— Elvis Forde earned a second in the 500 meters with a time of 1:04.46, while Marshall Crawley placed fifth with a 1:05.51.

— Alfred Brown placed sixth in the triple jump competition with a 48-2 leap.

— The 1600 meter relay team made up of Barry Konantz, Marshall Crawley, Tony Smith and Elvis Forde earned a second place with a time of 3:16.0.

Austin Peay Defeats Middle In OVC

In Clarksville, Tenn., Roosevelt Sanders scored 17 points to pace Austin Peay to a 75-63 win over Middle Tennessee State, while James Tillman poured in 41 points to lead Eastern Kentucky to a 98-84 victory over Tennessee Tech in Richmond, Ky.

In Morehead, Ky., Greg Col-dron got hot for 16 points to give Morehead State a 76-72 win over Akron.

Michael Shunick sank a 20-footer with 11:09 left in the first half to give Austin Peay the lead for good, and the Governors posted a 14-for-15 mark from the field in the second half.

Chris Harris and Pancakes Perry scored 16 points each to lead Middle Tennessee, 13-11 on the season and 5-5 in conference.

Austin Peay, 7-17 overall and 2-9 in the OVC, got 16 points from Andy Burton, 14 from Curtis Webster and 13 from Jimmy Blanford.

Tillman gave Eastern Kentucky the lead for good at 19-18 on a 10-footer, and the Colonels twice pushed the margin to 20 before intermission when they were out front 50-30.

Mike Williams led Tech, 4-21 on the season and 1-11 in conference, with 18 points.

Eastern Kentucky is 13-11 overall and 5-5 in conference.

Norris Beckley sank two free throws with 11:47 to go to give Morehead State the lead for good at 48-46.

Lance Bates scored 24 for Akron, 10-12 overall, and Wendell Bates added 12.

Morehead State, 14-10 on the season and 7-4 in conference, was paced by Beckley's 15 points. Butch Kelley added 13 and Charlie Clay and Ed Childress recorded 10 each.

RESERVE CENTER DIANE OAKLEY goes up for two in the Lady Racers' 71-69 win over Western Kentucky. Oakley scored 18 points, 14 in the second half.

Murray Girls Come Back To Beat Hickman

The Murray High girls team, spurred by the second-half defense of its guards, rallied from a 20-12 halftime deficit to take a 46-37 win over Hickman County Saturday afternoon.

It was the second time this season that the Lady Tigers had had to rally from a big deficit to defeat Hickman. In an earlier game between the two teams, Murray had trailed by 14 points before coming back to win in overtime.

"We just weren't playing at all (in the first half)," Murray coach Rick Fisher said. "We were just standing around. Evertime we play Hickman, we seem to do that."

"We're not playing the type of basketball we need to be district champions."

Murray had lost its last three games before the win Saturday which left its record at 12-7 for the season.

"In the second half, we went to a man-to-man on them and tried to pick up the tempo. The man-to-man constant pressure turned the game around for us."

"We got great hustle out of our three guards. Right now, they are really working well together and rubbing off on each other. They are making each other hustle."

It was the first time I can remember that we were led by a guard in rebounding (Velvet Jones had nine). That say a lot about her determination.

"She is really quick and just hustles all the time. She is playing with the determination we all need to win. She doesn't like to lose and just gives you 110 percent all the time."

Murray's third-quarter scoring came from Tonya Alexander, who had 10 points, and Candy Jackson, who had six points.

Jackson hit seven of free throws in the last quarter to help seal the win.

"We went to a slowdown game (in the last quarter)," Fisher said. "They tried to foul us to catch up."

"They went to a three-guard lineup to combat us, but couldn't keep up with our kids."

"We needed that win; we hadn't been played that well. It's been a long season for us."

Alexander and Jackson shared the scoring leadership for Murray with 19 points apiece.

Murray's next game is against Fulton County at home this Friday night before the boys game.

Frustration Ends For Moser-Proell

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The years of frustration melted away in one marvelous moment of triumph for Austrian ski queen Annemarie Moser-Proell and American speed skater Leah Mueller, who will remember these 1980 Winter Olympics as the Games in which they struck gold and silver.

Moser-Proell's decisive victory in the women's downhill Sunday ended eight years of waiting for an Olympic gold medal for the Austrian star, who had won just about everything else in her sport.

And Mueller, ending her racing career in memorable fashion, took her second silver from these Games, finishing second in the 1,000-meter speed skating behind Natalia Petrusheva of the Soviet Union.

Sunday's other winners included Russians Irina Rodnina and Aleksandr Zaitsev, who captured the pairs figure skating crown in an anticlimactic medal performance that lacked the showdown drama it had promised because of the injury-caused absence of Americans Rany Gardner and Tai Babilonia.

Sweden's Thomas Wassberg won the 15-kilometer cross country by the closest imaginable margin — one-hundredth of a second or less than two inches over Juha Mieto of Finland. The 70-meter special ski jump went to Austria's Anton Innauer.

As the Games turned into their final week, the Soviet Union and East Germany each had 11 medals. The Soviet total, however, included six gold. East Germany had two gold. Austria had four medals, including three gold, and the United States had two gold, four medals overall.

Much of the drama Sunday was centered on the frigid slopes of Whiteface Mountain where whistling winds created a 50-below zero chill factor and primitive conditions for the women skiers.

Moser-Proell, a six-time World Cup champion who had never before won an Olympic race, started sixth and flashed down the mountain in a spectacular 1 minute, 37.52 seconds. She was immediately surrounded with Austrian officials and fans who congratulated her.

But Moser-Proell stayed calm until Marie Theres-Nadig of Sweden, the ninth starter, finished her run. It was Nadig who upset Moser-Proell's gold medal hopes at the Sapporo Olympics in 1972 and Annemarie, who sat out the 1976 Games, was taking nothing for granted. Then the numbers went up on the scoreboard — "1:38.36." And at that moment, Moser-Proell thrust her arms in the air. The gold was hers, at last.

"When I saw Marie-Theres come across the finish line, I knew I had a 99 percent chance of winning because she was my toughest competitor," the Austrian star said. "I was obliged to win the downhill gold medal here because it's the only thing I haven't won."

That was true. Besides her six World Cups, she had won 65 cup races, 37 of them downhill. But people remember the Olympics and she had never won a race in this setting.

Now she has.

Nadig's time was good for the bronze medal with the silver going to Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein, timed in 1:38.22. The two other medalists hoisted Moser-Proell on their shoulders as scores of Austrian fans roared "Annemarie, Annemarie, Annemarie."

Heidi Preuss was the top American finisher, fourth in 1:39.51. Cindy Nelson, bronze medalist in the downhill at Innsbruck in 1976, finished tied for seventh in 1:39.69. Holly Flanders was 14th in 1:40.96.

While the women skiers battled frigid Whiteface Mountain, the speed skaters flew around the oval ice located in the middle of this sleepy town. And Mueller took home another silver.

Skating head-to-head with Petrusheva, the American was timed in 1:25.41 to 1:24.10 for the Russian. East Germany's Silvia Albrecht took the bronze in 1:26.46. All three medalists and eight other skaters, including American Beth Heiden, broke the Olympic record of 1:28.43 set by Tatiana Averina of the Soviet Union in 1976. Heiden was fifth in 1:27.01. The third American racer, Sarah Doctor, finished 14th in 1:28.80.

Like Moser-Proell, both Petrusheva and Mueller had retired from their sports for awhile. And they are headed in different directions now, the Russian emigrating as her country's top skater and the American leaving competitive skating again.

Second Shots Push Seattle Over Boston

By The Associated Press

The way the Seattle SuperSonics were hitting, Dennis Johnson was a longshot to make one against the Boston Celtics.

But the way they were rebounding, actually it didn't matter.

"Seattle had better second shots than first shots all day," noted Boston Coach Bill Fitch, referring to the Sonics' incredible 32 offensive rebounds in Sunday's National Basketball Association game.

Johnson didn't need a second shot, though, putting one in from the baseline with 11 seconds left to give the Sonics a dramatic 109-108 victory over the Celtics in a battle of NBA superpowers.

Johnson's winning shot came "when I wanted it," said Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens. "If he missed, we had the chance for the rebound."

The Sonics, Pacific Division leaders with a 45-16 record, were outshot by the Atlantics leading Celtics (44-15) from the field 48 per cent to 41. But they beat the Celtics off the boards by a whopping 71-52 advantage.

Dairy Farm Undergoes Changes

By Corrine M. Sheppard
The Murray State University dairy operation has undergone numerous changes since it was started 40 years ago.

One of the most significant is a recent one, a reduction since 1970 from 140 milkers in the registered, all-Jersey herd to today's level of 44 animals. Yet, milk production has increased substantially.

For example, last year the herd averaged 9,000 pounds per cow. This year, this figure is expected to reach an average of 13,000 pounds — well above the average for the breed.

Three of its animals currently have a daily milking production average in the high 70s, while the majority are producing at a daily average in the 60s. Three first-calf heifers are producing well above 50 pounds of milk per day.

"We are making more money with fewer animals," said Oren Hull, since August, 1979 herdsman. In the first four months of Hull's supervision, the operation has more than doubled its income as compared with the same period in previous years.

Hull, a 1949 Murray State graduate with a degree in agriculture, worked on the farm while a student, and following his graduation, became farm manager, a position he held until last year.

According to Hull, the improvements have been related to a number of factors. "Management has been the key to the success," Hull said. "Management in all areas of the dairy's operation is essential to the total success."

The herd is a healthy one, with no signs of mastitis at the present time. This situation was obtained through strict management of the animals and the facilities, with careful attention to sanitation, according to Hull.

The herd has been placed on a closely controlled feeding and milking program. The animals are milked at 3:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., and are fed five times daily on a regular schedule.

The dairy operation has been enhanced recently by the addition of a new airtight Harvestore silo, with a capacity of 525 tons of silage. It joins a 525-ton silo, already in use at the farm.

Both silos are used for the storage of corn silage and haylage used for feeding the herd. In addition, a supplement of grain is also mixed with the haylage and corn silage and fed to the animals.

Along with a 50-by-80 foot sleeping parlor used to house the 44 animals, a new barn, 40 by 60 feet in size, has recently been completed. The barn passed final inspection by state building inspectors and is now in use. It is used to house young calves, dry cattle, and show cattle, as well as to store hay.

The barn has one room for veterinary supplies, equipment, and records. There is ample room for grooming and laboratory work for the animal science classes.

Milking the animals is a precision process and must be practiced with caution and consistency. The cows must be cleaned and dried before being attached to the milking equipment. The milk collected is stored in a tank with a capacity of 2½ tons and is picked up every two days by Dairymen's Incorporated of Paducah.

The milk is tested daily for butterfat and bacteria by Dairymen's Inc. The milk is testing at a low 5,000 bacteria count. These tests are important because in the event that the bacteria count rises, the milk is considered inadequate for consumption. If this happens, the milk company may refuse the milk and the state inspectors may terminate the University's milk contract.

The Dairy Herd Improvement Association also conducts monthly tests on each cow. The test results are used to maintain health and to make decisions concerning the feeding, breeding, and culling of the animals.

All breeding of the farm's animals is conducted through the Kentucky Artificial Breeders Association (KABA). After careful consideration of the herd's traits, a strain is selected that complements the farm's animals. It is hoped that all animals can be replaced through the farm's breeding program and that no animal must be purchased from outside sources, but raised on the farm.

Six Murray State students have been assigned to the dairy farm through the University Student Employment and Federal Work-Study Programs. Five maintain majors in agriculture and one in wildlife biology.

"I'm grateful for the students I have working with me. I've never known a group of people more interested in their work. They don't seem to think of their assignment as a job but really as a learning experience. Each one of them thinks of the dairy as his own," Hull said.

"That type of attitude is hard to find and it makes my job a more enjoyable one," Hull added.

There are still several improvements and activities to be carried out on the dairy farm, according to Hull.

"For example, we would like to begin to show some of our animals in nearby competition next spring and summer; upgrade the breeding for production, type, and reproduction; and to continue to improve milk production," Hull said.

"We have high hopes for the future of the dairy," Hull said. "We want Murray State to be known for a successful dairy operation that the state can be proud of."

Referendum On Burley Tobacco Will Be Held Feb. 25-29

William R. Vincent, state executive director of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office, Lexington, announced that burley tobacco growers will decide in a referendum to be held by mail ballot, Feb. 25-29, 1980, whether marketing quotas will remain in effect on the next three (1980-1982) crops of burley tobacco.

Vincent asks growers to watch the mail for their referendum ballots that will be mailed Feb. 21, 1980, from their local county ASCS office. He said that any Burley grower who fails to receive a ballot in the mail should obtain one from his local county ASCS office or any ASCS office in Kentucky.

Vincent said the voted ballots must be returned to the county ASCS office by no later than close of business, Feb. 29, or the return envelope (ballot enclosed) must be postmarked by midnight Feb. 29, 1980, for the ballot to be eligible to be counted.

If growers disapprove quotas, there will be unlimited production and no price support. If growers vote in favor of marketing quotas, price support will be available and the average price support level for the 1980 crop will be approximately $145 per hundred weight.

Growers are urged to let their decision be known by voting in this referendum, Vincent said.

Liver has a lot going for it, say Extension foods and nutrition specialists with UK's College of Agriculture. Liver usually costs less, with more servings per pound, than other meat. It prepares and cooks quickly and there is almost no waste. And along with protein, it has more iron than other meats.

Regional Meetings Set For USDA Conservation Programs

Two regional meetings will be held at Lexington, KY on February 19 to give the public an opportunity to comment on the future conservation programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) according to local USDA officials.

Interested persons from Kentucky and portions of Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee are urged to attend says, Steve Alcott, District Conservationist with Calloway County Soil Conservation Service. One meeting is scheduled from 2:00 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. and the second one from 7:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. at the E.S. Good Barn Building on the University of Kentucky Campus at the corner of Commonwealth Drive and Farm Road, Lexington, Kentucky.

The public is being asked to help USDA decide how to accelerate the application of conservation work now being administered under 34 USDA programs. Seven alternative strategies being considered include:

(1) Redirection of present programs — Under this strategy, USDA would continue existing programs, but funds and personnel would be redirected to accomplish certain national conservation objectives. Cooperation would continue to be mostly voluntary.

(2) Cross compliance — Under this approach, producers would be required to apply effective conservation measures to qualify for benefits under other USDA programs, including commodity price supports, low interest loans, cost sharing, and crop insurance.

(3) Regional resource project approach — This strategy would direct USDA programs toward the more urgent and chronic regional resource problems. Federal participation would be available only for programs that contribute to meeting national conservation objectives.

(4) State leadership — Under this strategy, states would assume leadership for planning and carrying out conservation programs. State and local governments would develop conservation programs for USDA approval, provide technical assistance to producers, and fund those activities that benefit mainly state and local efforts. USDA would fund activities that have national benefits but are beyond the interest or financial resources of the producer or state and local governments.

(5) Regulatory emphasis — This alternative would emphasize the use of backup regulatory authorities at the local, state, and national level to carry out an effective national soil and water conservation program. This approach would be coupled with a strong cost-share and technical assistance program and low interest loans that would offer incentives for resource management.

(6) Conservation performance bonus — This strategy provides incentives to producers who voluntarily apply and maintain conservation measures that meet USDA standards. It offers incentives to obtain benefits under federal programs but has no required cross compliance. Priority would be given to resource areas where present conditions pose the greatest threat to future food and fiber production.

(7) Natural resource contracts — Under this strategy, USDA would offer to purchase erosion reduction, irrigation water reductions, and other outputs of conservation from producers. The public would, in effect, buy special benefits from those who run, operate, or control private natural resources.

The meetings are being held under the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977 (RCA). In RCA, Congress directed USDA to appraise the condition of the Nation's renewable natural resources and to propose programs to guide future conservation activities of USDA.

As a result of RCA, three documents have been published that can be reviewed at USDA offices. These include Parts I and II of the appraisal and a summary of the appraisal, national conservation objectives, and alternative strategies.

The Department has set national objectives for reducing soil erosion and preserving prime farmlands, improving water quality, conserving water, improving fish and wildlife habitat, including the preservation of wetlands from destruction, reducing upstream flood damages, conserving energy, and solving related resource problems.

Anyone interested in reviewing the documents before, or after, the regional meeting is urged to do so. A total of 18 regional meetings are planned.

Written or oral comments will be accepted at all meetings.

The public also is encouraged to send written comments about the appraisal or the alternative strategies to the USDA Response Analysis Center, P.O. Box 888, Athens, Georgia 30603. A 60-day public review period started on January 28, 1980. For consideration, comments must be postmarked no later than March 28 and received at the Center no later than April 10, 1980.

IRS's Energy Credits May Ease Financial Pain Of Paying Taxes

By DIANA TAYLOR
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — If home weatherization was one of your 1979 priorities, paying your taxes may not be as financially painful this year under the Internal Revenue Service's system of energy credits.

Under the system, there are two ways to keep money in your pocket and out of Uncle Sam's coffers — by deducting residential energy conservation costs and renewable energy source costs.

If you qualify in the first category, you may deduct 15 percent of the first $2,000 you spent on such items as storm windows and weather stripping. The maximum deduction is $300.

If you went even further, and installed a solar system to heat or cool your home, the deduction amounts to 30 percent of the first $2,000 and 20 percent of the next $8,000, or a $2,200 total tax credit.

More specifically, according to James Allgood of the IRS in Louisville, the following items qualify for an energy credit under the "energy conservation costs" category:

Insulation designed to reduce heat loss or heat gain in a home or water heater; storm or thermal windows or doors for the exterior of a home; caulking or weather stripping for exterior doors or windows; clock thermostats or other energy-saving thermostats; furnace modifications designed to increase fuel efficiency, and meters that display the cost of the energy you're using.

According to the IRS, the items must be new when they are installed, and must be expected to last at least three years. In addition, your home must have been built before April 20, 1977 if the energy-saving additions are to qualify for the credit.

Those items which do not qualify for conservation credits, Allgood said, include:

Wood- or peat-burning stoves; heat pumps; fluorescent lights; replacement boilers and replacement furnaces.

Queries on the eligibility of wood-burning stoves for tax credits are among the most-asked questions at the IRS office, Allgood said.

"We have to say, 'No,'" he said. "That's the way the legislation reads."

There are some wood-burning stoves on the market now that a homeowner can connect to existing furnace ducts to supplement furnace heat.

Whether such systems qualify as furnace modifications or do not qualify as wood-burning stoves would have to be decided on a case-by-case basis, Allgood said.

More extensive energy-saving work should net a tax credit under the "renewable energy source" category. Deductible items are:

Solar-energy equipment for heating or cooling a home or for providing hot water for use within a home; wind-energy equipment for generating electricity or other energy forms for home use, and geothermal energy equipment.

Unlike the credits allowable for energy conservation costs, the installation of solar, wind and geothermal equipment can be claimed whether they are added to a new or existing home.

A taxpayer doesn't need to itemize his or her deductions to claim the energy credits, Allgood said, but it is necessary to file a long, or 1040, form. Energy credits should be listed separately on form 5695, which can be attached to the long form, Allgood said.

There are no figures on the number of Kentuckians who claimed energy credits last year. But nationally, six million of the 52.5 million persons who filed long forms also filed for energy credits.

"That averages about 11.4 percent of the 1040 returns filed...for an average of about $100 per return," he said.

If the national figures are applied to Kentucky, Allgood said, between 70,000 and 75,000 Kentucky taxpayers claimed energy tax credits last year.

Police Officials Plead Innocent To Charges

PRINCETON, Ky. (AP) — Princeton police chief Robert Campbell and police Lt. Terry Vinson pleaded innocent today to charges of official misconduct and criminal mischief in connection with a tire slashing incident last year.

Campbell and Vinson entered innocent pleas in Caldwell District Court and were freed on their own recognizance. District Judge Chappell Wilson did not set a hearing date.

The two were accused in indictments Friday by the Caldwell County grand jury of cutting — or aiding or counseling another person in cutting — the tires of a van found deserted on a country road last March.

The grand jury heard 33 witnesses before issuing the indictment. The grand jury looked into the matter following a state police investigation requested in November by Caldwell County Commonwealth's Attorney Bill Cunningham.

Cunningham also requested a special prosecutor, and the state attorney general's office assigned Sam Isaacs to the case.

In addition to issuing the indictments, the grand jury recommended that the Princeton City Council conduct its own investigation, that the two officers be suspended, and that a "competent and qualified" police chief be employed.
